TRAFFIC ACCIDENTS INCREASE IN WINTER

"Drive Slow" in Rain, Sleet or Snow is Warning Issued

GET "FEEL" OF ROAD

Education of the younger child is the subject upon which Dr. Genevieve M. Bowen, supervisor of elementary education in the schools of Bucks county, and Mrs. Sara Buckley, supervisor of elementary education in the Bristol township schools, spoke at the meeting of the Wrightstown Township Parent-Teacher Association in the school house, Wycombe, Tuesday evening.

Addressing about 40 persons, Mrs. Buckley stressed the importance of time for solitary and social play, observation, books and stories, music and rest for the kindergarten.

A well planned kindergarten, she said, will meet these needs and help coordinate activities through the use of equipment planned to utilize the large muscles. A good program, she added, calls for plenty of outdoor and indoor space for play because cramped conditions cause confusion and restlessness.

In cooperation with the International Association of Chiefs of Police, the chief urged study proven methods which will help reduce the toll of deaths, accidents and traffic tics caused by disregard for snow, ice and poor visibility.

"Only serious consideration of these fundamental rules, based on scientific research and tests by the National Safety Council, will save drivers and pedestrians a lot of unnecessary trouble and sorrow," Chief Jones added.

The rules are:

1. Get the "feel" of the road surface when you start out. Test breaking and acceleration ability when no other cars are near and before you are faced with an emergency.

2. Reduce speed when road surfaces are snowy or icy so you can stop in time. Remember at only 20 miles per hour it takes 4 to 12 times more distance to stop on snow or ice as on dry concrete.

3. Keep windshield and windows clear of snow and ice on the outside, fog and frost inside. Check your defroster and wipers.

4. Use steel tire chains when snow or ice conditions generally

THE ARENSMEYER FUNERAL

Rites for William H. Arensmeyer, who died suddenly at Los Angeles Cal., on Thursday, are arranged for Monday morning. The service at 10:30 will be held in the Molden funeral chapel, 133 Otter street, and burial will take place in Oakland Cemetery, Phila. Friends may call Sunday evening. On Sunday evening, Bristol Lodge, No. 179, B. P. O. E., members will meet at the Elks home at 8:15 and proceed to the funeral home to conduct service. Bristol Lodge, 25, F. and A. M., will conduct service there at eight o'clock.

A SUMMARY OF THE NEWS

President Truman asked Congress yesterday to authorize a $17,000,000,000 four-year European recovery program and urged haste so that the plan might be put into effect by April 1st as part of the fight against "selfish totalitarian aggression." Mr. Truman requested that $6,000,000,000 be appropriated for use in the first fifteen months of the program, with further appropriations considered on an annual basis.

The Chief Executive proposed that the program be administered by a new and separate Federal agency, to be called the Economic Co-operative Administration. The legislation also would authorize United States underwriting of private American investments abroad.

The President's proposals brought a mixed reaction from Congress, which adjourned last night until January 6th. The Senate Foreign Relations Committee will open hearings January 7th on the Administration's program.

An austerity program for France akin to that prevailing in Britain was adopted by the National Assembly by Premier Schuman. It would combat inflation with the aid of a balanced budget, increased taxation and a balance between wages and prices.

"Sewing Pal" gifts were exchanged and names of new "pals" drawn for the ensuing year. The group engaged in singing Christmas carols.

"Red Candles," Story of A Norwegian Family, Given

YARDLEY, Dec. 20—"Red Candles" was the Christmas operetta presented last evening by pupils at Lower Makefield school. The story was that of a Norwegian mother and her children who came to the United States to claim an inheritance.

The chimes were played by Patricia Taylor, and Julia Ann Leedom served as pianist.

In addition to the main participants the group included carol singers, dancing chorus, "wooden soldiers," Santa's reindeer, and a rhythm band.

Jeanne S. Rowe was the music director, with costumes in charge of Marie Kelly; dances, Helen K. Stines; scenery and properties, Doris A. Kirby; lighting, Thomas H. Greene; and rhythm band, Elizabeth P. Badger.

TRAFFIC ACCIDENTS INCREASE IN WINTER

GET "FEEL" OF ROAD

Pointing to huge increases in traffic deaths during winter over other seasons of the year, Chief of Police Linsford J. Jones today warned motorists to prepare for hazardous winter weather and road conditions ahead.

Drive slow in rain, sleet or snow, because traffic accident rates increase 24 to 53 per cent during snow and ice months," Chief Jones said. "And, with more vehicles operating this winter than ever before, every driver must ready his seasonal safety equipment and be on the double alert."

In cooperation with the International Association of Chiefs of Police, the chief urged study proven methods which will help reduce the toll of deaths, accidents and traffic tups caused by disregard for snow, ice and poor visibility.

The President's proposals brought a mixed reaction from Congress, which adjourned last night until January 6th. The Senate Foreign Relations Committee will open hearings January 5th on the Administration's program.

Shortly before adjournment, the special session approved as its last act a $540,000,000 emergency aid program for Europe and China. It also provided for appropriations totaling $40,000,000 for occupational expenses in Germany and the Pacific.

Earlier in the day, the House quickly passed, 281 to 73, the Senate-approved resolution to combat inflation largely through voluntary measures and sent it to the White House.

Mr. Truman also received and signed a Congressional resolution empowering Secretary of Agriculture Anderson to make available the names of large-scale traders in the commodity markets.

Mr. Truman and his Cabinet were on hand to greet Secretary of State Marshall when his plane arrived in Washington at 9 a. m. from the unsuccessful London meeting of the Council of Foreign Ministers.

In a radio report to the nation, Secretary Marshall declared that the meeting had shown that peacemaking was impossible until stable conditions in Europe had been achieved.

MARSHALL PLAN DANGERS

A great many people are talking or writing about the Marshall Plan of aiding Europe as though the whole scheme was something new dreamed up to meet the special needs of the present crisis.

As a matter of fact, there is nothing new in the plan, beyond the fact that it is all wrapped up neatly in one $20,000,000,000 bundle and is being used as a spring-board by President Truman for his campaign for re-election.

The plan isn't new; it's been tried before. Not even the amount is new, for it was being generally reported in Washington, long before the end of the World War, that secret promises had been made to European nations for post-war aid running to between $20,000,000,000 and $22,000,000,000.

Moreover, and very much to the point, this type of assistance—or of playing international politics, if you prefer—has been a complete failure where it has been tried before.

The four-billion dollar British loan is sometimes used as an instance showing how little real good is done by relief of this kind, and how little the "safeguards" and "returns" really mean. Technically, the British gift was a "loan"—but who is there today who still expects that it is going to be repaid?

In exchange for the money, Britain promised that she would unblock her Sterling; but the Sterling is still blocked, a fact not disassociated with the current crises in Europe. According to the British accounts themselves, more than half of the American loan went for movies and tobacco—both of them now taxed out of the British market.

The British loan, intended to put England back on easy street and give her economy a fifty-year lease of life, now is all gone. England is "broke" worse than ever. Since the loan was granted she has surrendered much of her territory, and has thrown onto Uncle Sam's shoulders much of the responsibilities in world affairs she formerly carried.

NOT WORRIED ENOUGH

Edwin G. Nourse, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, is worried over the prospect of a "third round" of wage increases. There can be no question about that, for he has said so. But it can be fairly asked whether he is worried enough.

In an interview the other day Nourse said that another wage increase averaging 10 cents an hour

could "create an inflationary bulge if it is widespread." It would mean higher prices passed on to the public. That is, the inflationary spiral would get another upward shove. But is that all there is to fear?

The "bulge" might well be similar to the one President Truman permitted in the immediate postwar period when the steel workers won a wage increase and the government found itself forced to grant higher steel prices. That turned out to be no bulge but a break-through—because steel is a basic commodity and when it costs more the costs of countless things made of steel go up, too.

The angel narrators will be Miss Marion Rogers, Mrs. David Ludwig; the Madonna, Mrs. Arthur Peter-son; violinist, Miss Myrtle Corning; pianist, Mrs. Lee Van Gilder; trumpeters, Thomas Baker, Louis Sabatti, Dominic Lucenti, James Martin.

Other Sunday services will be:

Church School, 9:45, with the Christmas lesson; morning worship, at 11, the Christmas sermon by the Rev. Charles Weller; "Getting Ready for Christmas," the anthem; "Glory to God" (Rogers), choir; prelude, "Glad Tidings of Great Joy" (Edwards) (organ and piano); Miss Tracy and Mrs. Van Gilder; offertory, "Peace, Good Will" (organ piano and violin); and "Gesu Bambino" (violin). Myrtle Corning; postlude, "Jesus is Born a King" (Brown), piano and organ; youth meeting, 6:30; devotions by Carolyn Ludwig and the discussion by Marcia VanLanthen.

Nourse added that he sees

"hope" of more restraint on the part of unions. He also thinks there is a "possibility" that managements, now confronted by greater buyer resistance, will absorb the added expense or at least not push up prices any higher than necessary to balance their enhanced costs. In that event, he says, the inflationary impact "can be contained."

It can be, perhaps, but will it? There is not much in the history of the last two years to suggest that union leaders will take any thing less than they can get. And prices have soared even though many products, such as automobiles, have been priced below their actual value in the market. Nourse should be more concerned—and more plain-spoken.

Fifteen years are required to

CHURCHES FEATURE OUTSTANDING EVENTS AT SERVICES FOR SUNDAY AND THE WEEK WHICH WILL FOLLOW*CHORAL PAGEANT IN COSTUME TO FEATURE SUNDAY NIGHT SERVICE

A choral pageant in costume, with scenery and beautiful lighting effects, will be presented by the choir of Bristol Methodist Church on Sunday evening at 7:45, directed by Miss Winifred V. Tracy, organist. The pageant will open with fanfare by the trumpeters followed by a candlelight procession, and a Nativity scene with the angel narrators.

There will be special musical numbers with the organ, piano, violin and symphony harp; the opening anthem by the choir will be "Calm on the Night," trio, Mrs. Richard Winslow, Mrs. Lee Van Gilder, Mrs. Warren Jennings; solo, Mrs. Charles Weller; bass solo, "The Heavenly King," James S. Douglass; alto and tenor duet, "Holy Nite," Mrs. Warren Jennings and George Tschad; bass solo, "Now When Jesus Was Born," William Dunkleberry; men's chorus, "Far Across the Desert's Sands"; soprano solo, "And Lo! The Star," Mrs. Richard Winslow; anthem, choir, "O'er Bethlehem City," mixed quartet, "O Little Babe of Bethlehem," Mrs. Lee Van Gilder, Miss Myrtle Corning, William H. Thompson, James S. Douglass; soprano solo, "Sleep Little Son," Mrs. Arthur Peterson; women's quartet, "There's a Song in the Air," Miss Elizabeth Wilkinson, Miss Marcia Swetland, Miss Louise Smoyer, Mrs. Charles Weller; anthem, choir, "Singing of Him."

The angel narrators will be Miss Marion Rogers, Mrs. David Ludwig; the Madonna, Mrs. Arthur Peterson; violinist, Miss Myrtle Corning; pianist, Mrs. Lee Van Gilder; trumpeters, Thomas Baker, Louis Sabatti, Dominic Lucenti, James Martin.

Other Sunday services will be:

Church School, 9:45, with the Christmas lesson; morning worship with sermons in English and in Italian by the pastor, 10 o'clock; Church School, 11 o'clock, under direction of Ralston Hedrick; evening worship, seven o'clock, with pictures on the Christmas story.

Monday night at seven o'clock, practice for the Christmas pageant; also the decorating of the school hall; Tuesday night, at seven o'clock, Sunday School Christmas festival will take place. There will be a pageant under direction of Miss Romanella, assisted by the choir under direction of Mrs. Jennie Reardon.

Christmas morning at 10 o'clock, special service in the church. There will be special music under direction of Mrs. Reardon, and sermons in English and in Italian. The Italian sermon will be delivered by the Rev. Domenico Porfirio, Rochester, N. Y., and the English message will be given by the pastor, Dr. Andrew G. Sofia.

HARRIMAN METHODIST CHURCH

The Rev. William C. Carroll, pastor, will preach in the Sunday morning worship service at 11 on the text, "What Do We See Is Jesus." In the evening service at eight, the choir will present its traditional Christmas cantata, entitled "The World's Redeemer," in the Sunday School program which will begin at 9:45, the sound motion picture will be shown entitled "A Savior is Born."

CASH IN ON IDEAS

NEW YORK—(INS)—State employees in New York are being awarded cash prizes ranging as high as $500 for suggesting new ways to increase government efficiency. The Civil Service Assembly reports. The three-man board which administers the program investigated 178 suggestions and made 31 awards in its first five months of operation. Nineteen awards were cash and 12 were certificates of merit.

CHRISTMAS REVENGE

By DAMON RUNYON

CHRISTMAS is coming around once more, and it always reminds me of what good times we have at such a season of the year back in my old home town out West.

It also reminds me of the Christmas that Swede Sam Sudenberg has the big Christmas tree and celebration in Union Park, and gives Christmas presents to all the little boys and girls of my old home town, there being many such, both male and female.

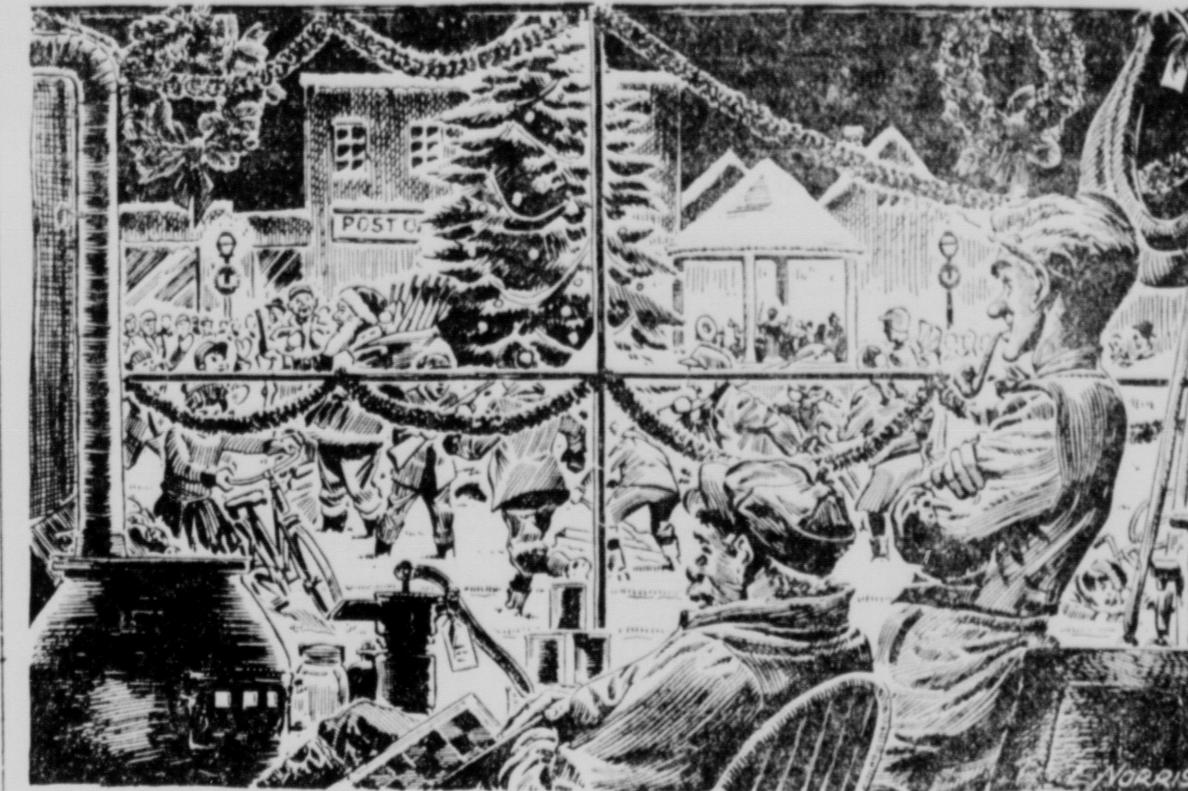

In fact, statistics prove that there are more little boys and girls in my old home town in those days than any other town west of the Mississippi, proportionately to population. It is a matter of which all our citizens are very proud indeed, and is mentioned to everybody who visits our town.

This Swede Sam Sudenberg who gives the Christmas tree and celebration to the little boys and girls is a big squarehead who is run out of my old town by Marshal Dillon a year before, because all Swede Sam does is to hang out around saloons, and drink beer, and whiskey, and keep himself drunked up at all times.

Naturally nobody wishes to see such a character around my old home town, and Marshal Dillon not only run Swede off, but gives him a good booting down the railroad track to make Swede Sam understand he is not wanted.

Well, Swede Sam goes up into the Cripple Creek district, and the next thing anybody knows he strikes it rich. He is wandering around the hills drunk one day and falls into an old prospect hole, and what does he find in this hole but a pay streak which is overlooked by the guy who first digs the hole.

Swede Sam comes back to my old home town with plenty of dough, and naturally everybody forgets what a no-account proposition he is when he is there before. A no-account guy without money, and a no-account guy with plenty of it, are two different matters in my old home town and everywhere else. Well, it is along about Christmas when Swede Sam returns, and he says he wishes to put on a big Christmas tree and celebration because he always loves the little boys and girls of my old home town, and also is very proud of my old home town having so many little boys and girls, both male and female.

Now this does not sound like sense to a lot of people who know Swede Sam well, and know it is not like him to be loving anybody or anything, or being proud of anything, but as long as he has the dough to pay the bills for his celebration nobody can see any objection. In fact, many of our citizens are in favor of it, figuring it will save them money in playing Santa Claus.

So Swede Sam sends up into the hills and has the biggest pine tree in the whole country cut down and put up in Union Park. Then he goes to Denver and buys Christmas presents for the little boys and girls, though what these presents are nobody knows until the night of the doings.

The tree is certainly pretty sight standing there in Union Park, all lighted up with electric lights, and decorated with glass balls, and one thing and another, and at the foot of the tree are stacks of long bundles and a whole slew of bicycles. There are hundreds of the long bundles and hundreds of the bicycles which anybody can see are girls' bicycles.

The park is jammed with little boys and girls, pulling and hauling, and much pleasure is up over the idea of receiving presents from Santa Claus. Furthermore, all their parents are there, figuring maybe Santa may have something left over for them.

Old Swede Sam certainly does the thing up right. He has McClelland's Silver Cornet Band there and also the choir from the First Methodist Church to do some singing, and Preacher Hathaway to say a sermon, and Dr. T. Hannibal Wilcox to make a speech, although of course, Dr. T. Hannibal Wilcox is nobody but old Doc Wilcox.

Well, of course, a lot of nice things are said about Swede, and what a credit he is to the community, which, of course, he is nothing of the kind and then out comes old Bill Hemming made up as Santa Claus with whiskers and one thing and another, and starts to hand out the presents. Old Bill is one of Swede Sam's pals in the days when Swede Sam is hanging around the saloons, but he makes a first rate Santa Claus.

It seems the bicycles go to the little girls, every little girl in town getting one, while the long bundles go to the little boys, and they turn out to be .22-caliber rifles, with several boxes of cartridges with each one. There is also candy for all hands, including the parents, and then the celebration comes to an end with everybody giving three cheers for Swede Sam.

Well, of course, there is some comment on Swede Sam's choice

Marshall Plan Dangers

That sums up the "fruits" of the British Loan, as a sort of fore-taste of what can be expected by repeating it on a larger scale throughout all of Europe.

The best earlier counterpart of the Marshall Plan, however, is the lend-lease gift of $2,500,000,000 to France, authorized by the U. S. Secretary of State in February, 1945.

The political reason for that particular loan had nothing to do with the war itself, although the war still had a couple of months to go.

The fact is that de Gaulle, having been set up in business as boss of France by the British and American armies, promptly began flirting with the Russian Communists.

To try to bring him back into the Anglo-American camp, England shipped his country a great deal of food desperately needed by the British people; and Uncle Sam made the generous lend-lease gift.

Technically, much of the lend-lease grant was illegal. Lend-lease was intended only for war purposes, under the law, and at least a third of the French shipments had nothing to do with warfare. That shows how little value there is in Congress writing restrictions into a bill of this type, and then leaving it to the executive to decide whether he is going to obey them or not.

Actually, much of the shipments sent to France were exactly parallel with the type of shipments proposed for European nations under the Marshall Plan.

Included in our gifts to France were $200,000,000 worth of locomotives, $50,000,000 inland barges, $8,000,000 fishing ships, $150,000,000 industrial equipment, $100,000,000 metal working machinery, $132,000,000 petroleum products, $185,000,000 food, and $840,000,000 raw materials.

A great many of these items, of course, were in extremely scarce supply in this country. Some still are. Just the same, they were turned over to France — on the assurance that France would be speeded back to self-support thereby, and that we would have a permanent warm spot in the French heart.

Did this work? Not so you could notice it.

Part of the scheme was to win the cooperation of de Gaulle. Instead, he kept on boasting of his "great and good" friendship with Stalin, and being exceedingly difficult.

Another part of the plan was to solidify the de Gaulle regime, and give France a stable government. But it wasn't many months until de Gaulle quit in a huff, and France since then has been in turmoil, with one administration after another, and the Communists just as much of a menace as ever.

France is no more self-supporting today than she was at that time. The principles of Socialism are deeply entrenched. French currency has been sadly inflated. A large slice of the new stop-gap relief plan is for her benefit.

As for friendship, there is no reason to assume that, once the cash now in sight has changed hands, France will not go back at once to her former peevish, resentful attitude towards Uncle Sam. Even the British show affection for us, it seems, only when they get ready to ask for a new loan.

If the Marshall Plan was going to be accepted or rejected on a basis of common sense—which just now doesn't appear to be in prospect—then the complete failure of earlier versions of the Plan would seem to be good arguments against repeating them on such gigantic scale.

Save Wheat! Save Meat! Save the Peace!

SATURDAY PEACE PLATE

A little hamburger goes a long way in today's substantial Peace Plate suggestion from home economists of the Consumer Service Section, Citizens Food Committee. In fact, the course-in-one dish, Texas Hash, serves 8, and three Variations make this a "Must" for the recipe book.

With hearty Texas Hash, serve mixed green pickles and baked potatoes, not forgetting to rub a little fat on skins before baking. For dessert, treat the family to frosted pie cake.

of presents, because some of the little boys who get the rifles are only two or three years old, and some of the girls who get the bicycles are not much older, but everybody figures it shows Sam's heart is in the right place, anyway.

But by noon the next day one and all realize that Swede Sam picks these presents out on purpose, and they can see what a terrible man he is at heart. Furthermore, everybody in my old home town is very sorry Marshal Dillon runs Swede off, and makes him sore at us, because by this time of day there is not a live pigeon and very few canary birds left in town, and crippled cats and dogs are running every which way screaming and howling like the dickens, with bullets from these .22-caliber rifles in them.

Every window light in town is busted, and nobody is safe in the public streets, because if they do not get hit by stray bullets they are sure to be knocked over by little girls learning to ride bicycles. It is one of the most terrible terrors that ever comes up back in my old home town out West.

It sounds like the Fourth of July in the streets, as some of the little boys are playing Indians with their rifles, and other little boys are playing cowboys, and everywhere you hear the voices of little female children crying because they tumble off their bicycles.

Well, the members of the city council get together as soon as possible and pass an ordinance forbidding .22-caliber rifles, or bicycles, in the city limits, but by this time the damage is so great that they also add another ordinance forbidding public Christmas trees, or Swede Sam Sudenberg within the county lines for a period of 10 years.

But the chances are Swede Sam Sudenberg does not care, because nobody ever sees him anywhere near my old home town again.

The F. W. Quartet from Chalfont, composed of Robert Graham, John Turnley, Charles Swartley and David Helsel, and with Ward F. MacNair as the accompanist, sang a number of Christmas selections.

Three reels of motion pictures were shown.

With the offering of turkeys at the combination auction, conducted Tuesday at Solebury by the Rice Brothers, rather light, the demand, especially for lighter stock, was quite keen. Prices of turkey hens at the sale, which was attended by between 700 and 800 persons, ranged from 50 to 60 cents a pound, and toms under 20 pounds sold for 40 to 46 cents a pound. Heavier birds brought from 28 to 37 cents a pound. In general the prices of the other poultry were slightly stronger.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

Washington Tipsters

Washington, Dec. 20—PROBABLY nowhere in the world can one hear more things that are not so than in Washington. This is where politics most luxuriantly flourishes and politicians of all breeds and sizes, kinds and creeds swarm all over the place.

ESPECIALLY is this true in the four-year period when the presidential campaign looms just ahead and the White House aspirants clutter up both the executive and legislative branches of the Government. Then it is that the rumors and reports fly so thick and fast that it is difficult indeed, to keep up with them. Some of these, of course, are true. Many are fantastically unfounded. Most have about them a trace of truth, but are so twisted, expanded, and exploited that it is not easy to discern.

THE manufacture and dissemination of these rumors and reports, and the retelling of so-called "inside information" is more or less a major industry here, and a large number of persons are engaged in it. Many of these are inspired by no more sinister motive than the innate human love of gossip and the strange pleasure which so many take in the discomfiture of their dearest friends. Others are impelled by the feeling of importance which they gain by being the first to circulate a startling piece of news. Still others—and these are always political—are motivated by the desire to "stand in" with the more sensational columnists and radio commentators, who reciprocate by lauding these tipsters as "able," "brilliant," "clear-headed," "hard-working," "broad-minded" and "liberal."

THIS has come to be quite a game in certain political and journalistic circles and an astonishing number of persons are astounding it. Some are in official positions of such dignity and importance that it seems a particularly degrading thing to do. Yet they do it. Sometimes these "inside" stories do no particular harm. Occasionally, they are embarrassing. Often they convey an inaccurate picture of what happened, what was said and by whom. Not long ago Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower had an experience which illustrates the sort of thing that goes on—and the sort of risk to which a man in public life is exposed even at a time and place where he has every reason to feel secure.

THE General and his wife were guests at a social dinner. His hostess was a personal friend with whom they had dined before. After dinner, talking informally to the men left at the table, the General made some remarks on inflation. There was nothing sensational in what he said. It had been said before—for one, by ex-Governor Landen in a public speech months ago. It was not a political dinner or conference. The General was not the guest of honor. He had not been asked to enable Pennsylvania Republican leaders to "look him over." He did not remotely suggest that Congress pass a law to take away 100 per cent of the profits from industry for one year. There was nothing remotely secret about the affair. There was not the least political significance to his presence—and no one at the dinner thought so.

YET all these things—and more—were asserted in the broadcasts and printed stories that followed and which obviously had been inspired by one of the politicians among the guests. Certainly somebody who was present, acting as a tipster, made an exceedingly inaccurate report. Nothing, of course, can be done in such cases. Denials never can catch up with the original output. And there is always in such statements just enough truth to make it impossible successfully to contradict. Also, there is no way to discover the source of the misinformation. There was nothing for the General to do except take it, which he did. The snipers are still shooting at him for what he did not say and for what did not happen. One hardly could blame him, but it would be a great pity of the experience lessened the candor and forthrightness which make him so engaging a man and caused him to dilute the free expression of his convictions with the age-old caution of the congenital politician.

THE incident recalls a Maryland story of a good many years ago. The late Senator John Walter Smith in those days was engaged in a mighty feud with the late Senator Blair Lee. One day, in the old Bennett Hotel, one of Senator Smith's most devoted followers and aides—Zed Caswell, of the Eastern Shore—met another Smith man, "Zed," said this fellow, "did you hear that Blair Lee is keeping a woman in Philadelphia?" There was, of course, not a trace of truth in that, but Zed's reply was prompt. "N," he said, "I ain't heard it, but I kin spread it." That is the principle upon which a good many of these Washington tipsters operate.

ANDALUSIA

Friends and neighbors of Walter A. Keller, head of L. P. Keller and Son, Phila., funeral directing firm, will be sorry to learn of his death on Monday at his residence. Mr. Keller spent much time at his home on State road. Mr. Keller, who was 69, was a member of a funeral directors' association; Harmony Lodge No. 52, Columbia Chapter, No. 91, past commander of Kadosh Commandery No. 29, Joppa Council No. 46, and Lu Lu Temple, all Masonic organizations, and Court Nimrod No. 65, Foresters of America. Surviving are his wife, Alida, and a son, Paul.

The Andalusia Brownie Troop met in Andalusia school basement on Monday afternoon. Carols were sung and games played. Mrs. Elsner, leader, was in charge, with Mrs. Lawrence Robinson and Mrs. Harold Wienland assisting.

The Andalusia Baptist Church Sunday School entertainment and Christmas party will be on December 26, at eight p. m.

Sympathy of friends is extended to Edward G. Katzmar, Sr., on the death of his sister, Mrs. Albert Schweigert, Toms River, N. J., on Tuesday.

Andalusia Girl Scout Troop, No. 23, has been invited to present a play, "Merrily We Roll Along," before Northeastern District of Girl Scouts.

Joseph Schwartz returned to his home on Tuesday after undergoing an operation in Nazareth Hospital, Philadelphia.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Smith entertained on Sunday afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Russell, Mr. and Mrs. William Young and children, Michael and Elaine, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hank Phila.; Mr. and Mrs. L. Smith and children, Larry and Linda, Somerton.

Mrs. Joseph Schwartz has been confined to her bed for the past several days with a serious case of pneumonia.

The Andalusia Parent-Teacher Association held a Christmas party on Monday evening at the school. Mrs. Clifford Sommerfield, president, was in charge. Gifts were exchanged and Lester Stump showed "movies" to the gathering. Refreshments of ice cream, cake and coffee were served. Miss Virginia Morris' second and third grade classes were awarded the attendance banner.

SUNDAY DINNER Suggestions

THE cauliflower, though a white-headed vegetable veteran, is none the less hardy, for it only reaches full maturity during the cool of the fall.

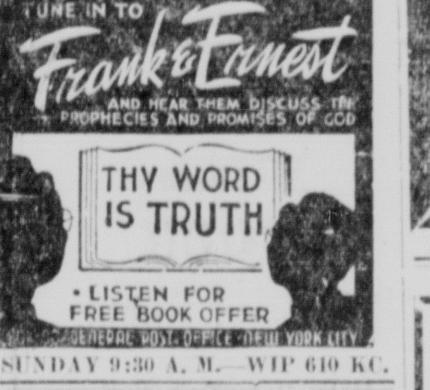

Discovered centuries ago on the banks of the Mediterranean and served as a delicacy on the tables of countless Europeans, importation to this country, where it was subjected to better cultivation processes, improved the vegetable's taste qualities.

Not only is the "flower," as it is known to growers, rich in vitamins A, C and G, but it is also excellent for balancing an otherwise starchy dinner, advises the A & P Service for Home-Makers.

Preparation is simple. After removing the outer leaves, it is only necessary to break the head into flowers, wash under running water and cook for 15 to 20 minutes in a few inches of water. Some food experts recommend soaking the vegetable, head down, in cold water for 30 minutes before cooking. Other experts say soaking is unnecessary and has a tendency to dissolve the Vitamin C.

Try boiling the outer leaves for a few minutes and using the juice as a base for a vegetable and butter sauce. Other tasty companions are Hollandaise, creamy white sauce or melted butter seasoned with lemon juice.

For a Sunday dinner with added taste-appeal, try serving cauliflower with Hollandaise sauce on a menu which includes veal roast, baked potatoes, a salad of grated carrots, lettuce and chopped celery, pumpkin pie for dessert and coffee.

Miss Jane Biddle Will Be Wed to John Norris Today

TORRESDALE, Dec. 20—A wedding will be solemnized this afternoon at four o'clock, in All Saints Episcopal Church, when Miss Jane Craig Biddle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Mercer Biddle, Jr., of "The Dell," Andalusia, will become the bride of Mr. John Norris, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Norris, of The Barclay, Philadelphia, and Haverford. The Rev. Percy Brown, rector, will officiate.

The bride will be attired in a cream satin gown, with a portrait neckline, long sleeves and train. Her veil is of all rose point and tulie, falling gracefully from her headpiece. She will carry a bouquet of white violets.

The bride will be attended by Miss Jane Norris, sister of the bridegroom, Philadelphia, as maid of honor. The bridesmaids will be the Misses Betty Barr, Carr, Brewster, Alice Chamberlain, Betty Anne Levin, Marianne W. O'Neill, Patricia V. Stewart, Mary Taylor Saunders, Dora Browning Stewart, Ella Anne Widener, Philadelphia, and Nancy Dupont, of Wilmington, Del. The DuPont, of Wilmington, Del. The maid of honor and bridesmaids will be gowned in aqua velvet, with gloves and hats to match. They will carry small white muffs.

Mr. Norris will be attended by Mr. Phillip T. Sharpless, Philadelphia, as best man. The ushers will be Messrs. Bartow Farr, William Hutton, Lindley G. Miller, Charles Miner, Daniel H. Ridder, of New York, N. Y.; George E. Bartol, 3d, John W. Drayton, Bertram D. Colman, Alfred W. Putman, Frederick Wetherill, and David E. Wood, Philadelphia.

The bride's mother, Mrs. A. Mercer Biddle, Jr., will be attired in a golden tan satin dress with brown accessories. The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Charles Norris, has chosen blue satin for her dress.

A reception will follow the ceremony at the Biddle home in Andalusia.

The bride is prominent in Philadelphia society and Mr. Norris is a lawyer in the offices of Norris, Hart, Bell, Lex and Eldridge, a Philadelphia firm.

Dear Father, as we approach Thy most holy Self through Jesus Christ Thy Son, we come to praise Thee for thy love and mercy made known unto us through the sending of Thine only begotten Son. Tomorrow is Christmas Sunday, thousands, yes millions will be gathering in Thine houses of worship to hear Thy Word in sermon and cantata — bless the Ministers with wisdom, bless the singers with health and strong voices that all may blend in one great Heaven-bound Hallelujah of Praise to God the Father, God the Son and God the Holy Spirit. This we ask in the Name of Him whose Birthday we are about to celebrate. Amen.

CROYDON "VETS" LOSE TO 5TH WARD IN THE LAST PERIOD

The Croydon Vets tired in the final period last night and after holding their own for three quarters bowed to the Fifth Ward Sporting Club, 56-48, on the High School floor in a Bristol League contest.

Throughout most of the game, the Vets held a slight lead. At the close of the first period, they were in front, 13-12. At half-time, the Croydonites had a five-point lead, 25-20. Fifth Ward crept up in the third session and took the lead, 38-37, but in the final the Schumacher Post members lost out.

It was the shooting of "Wally" Carnvale and "Vince" DiTanna that gave the league-leaders the win. This duo scored 20 points in the second half with Carnvale dropping in four out of four fouls.

"Danny" DiMadio and "Freddie" Costantino played a fine passing game for the winners while outstanding for the Vets was a newcomer, "Ted" Lavery, who made 17 points.

Tonight, the first Saturday night games of the Bristol League will be played on the high school floor. St. Ann's will play the Hibernians in the first game, with Rohm & Haas meeting Profy's in the second tilt.

Next week's schedule calls for games being played on Tuesday and Friday nights on the high school floor.

CROYDON "VETS" LOSE TO 5TH WARD IN THE LAST PERIOD

The Croydon Vets tired in the final period last night and after holding their own for three quarters bowed to the 5th Ward Sporting Club, 56-48, on the High School floor in a Bristol League contest.

Throughout most of the game, the Vets held a slight lead. At the close of the first period, they were in front, 13-12. At half-time, the Croydonites had a five-point lead, 25-20. 5th Ward crept up in the third session and took the lead, 38-37, but in the final the Schumacher Post members lost out.

It was the shooting of "Wally" Carnvale and "Vince" DiTanna that gave the league-leaders the win. This duo scored 20 points in the second half with Carnvale dropping in four out of four foul shots.

"Danny" DiMidio and "Freddie" Costantino played a fine passing game for the winners while outstanding for the Vets was a newcomer, "Ted" Lavery, who made 17 points.

Tonight, the first Saturday night games of the Bristol League will be played on the high school floor. St. Ann's will play the Iberians in the first game, with Rohm & Haas commissioning Proffy's in the second tilt.

Next week's schedule calls for games being played on Tuesday and Friday nights on the high school floor.
